Boulder, CO - With summer fast approaching, the American Mountain Guides Association (AMGA) invites you to reach the summit of your heart's desire while helping support access and education for the professional mountain guiding community.

Boulder, CO - With summer fast approaching, the American Mountain Guides Association (AMGA) invites you to reach the summit of your heart's desire while helping support access and education for the professional mountain guiding community. Experience one of the greatest mountains in the United States, Mt. Rainier, led by three premier AMGA/IFMGA Certified Mountain Guides; Margaret Wheeler, John Race and Olivia Cussen. In addition to climbing one of the most revered mountains in the lower 48, your contribution will directly support American Mountain Guides Association's initiative to raise awareness and educate the public about the national standard for professional mountain guides as well as advocate for the protection of our natural environment.
